Popular Fancies In Coin Values

"Golden Pennies"

"The Identification and Valuation of Coins" was the subject of a short paper read by Mr. H. R. Ford at the last meeting of the New Zealand Numismatic Society. "Our Society is primarily concerned with the study and identification of the coins we collect," said Mr. Ford, "and as it is only the favored few who will ever be able to visit the sites of early civilizations and unearth ancient treasures for themselves, most of us have to purchase our coins in the world's markets, and therefore coin values and the identification of the genuine from the spurious naturally concern us.

Imitation Spade Guineas.

Some people imagine they possess golden Spade guineas of George III, which bear the exact likeness of George III and the legend "In Memory of the Good Old Days" and dated 1797. These are merely brass card counters, probably made in Nuremberg, Germany. No master of the mint would put such a statement on a current coin of the realm. To do so would have been an insult to the reigning King. That legend or inscription is only used to prevent the manufacturers of these brass card counters from being indicted for manufacturing and issuing spurious coin. And in 1797 what "good old days" would that legend refer to? To the days of "Bluff King Hal" or of William the Conqueror?

An examination of a genuine Spade guinea will reveal the familiar spade-like shield, and the full style and title of His Majesty King George III on the reverse. The brass "Spade guinea" counters bear a variety of legends and are sold throughout the British Empire today at from 7s.6d. to 10s. per gross box.

The Value of 1914 Pennies.

I should like to put an end to the canard that has been persistently circulated in Wellington and elsewhere that 1914 pennies have a high value because of their supposedly high gold content, and consequent rarity through being called in by the Royal Mint on Tower Hill, London. This idea has arisen from the fiction that either a gold ingot or a crucible of gold fell into a pot of molten bronze at the Royal Mint and the Royal Mint was calling in the pennies made therefrom to recover the lost gold!

A more fantastic and ridiculous story of the Royal Mint could hardly be imagined, as it is a highly organized factory. We who are conversant with factory organization and know the necessary checking of raw materials such as precious and base metals, issued to factory staffs, and the subsequent checking and viewing of the finished products, know that this is not likely. In the production of articles of gold and silver, whether in the workshops of jewelry manufacturers or mints, every scrap of metal, including the scissel cuttings, the floor sweepings, and the residue from the wash-hands, is collected and treated to recover the utmost particle of gold and silver. It is unthinkable that such a mishap could ever occur at the Royal Mint, because the gold and silver are melted in a different department from the bronze mainly to keep the scrap residues of the precious metals separate from the base.

One story states that the 1914 pennies are worth over £7 each. A bronze penny in mint state weighs six-twentieths of an ounce, and if it were of solid gold throughout and weighed six dwts., then at present price of gold it would be worth only £2, and actually it would be much thinner than a bronze penny because of the greater atomic weight of gold.

Are any of the bronze pennies from 1860 onward scarce? Let us see. Bronze pennies are issued by the Mint in millions every year, for not only are they required as currency for small amounts over the counter, but also in slot gas meters and in slot machines, vending packets of chocolate, cigarettes, matches and in every railway station, beach pavilion and department store in Great Britain and overseas. All are operated by pennies dated from 1860 to 1936. Over a certain period the lowest number of bronze pennies issued from the mint was 3,870,720, in the year 1894, and the greatest number over the same period, 1896, no less than 24,192,000. Literally tons of pennies are issued each year. If any bronze pennies were inclined to be a little scarcer than others, they would be the 1915 pennies, which were struck in 1914, when the Royal Mint was partly converted into a munition factory because the Great War was on.

The mint is a Government factory and, like all manufacturing concerns, has to wait for orders. It has no direct means of knowing when new coins are required for local use. This information has to be obtained from the Bank of England, which is in daily contact with the London and Provincial bankers. In the latter part of every year the bankers order on an average one million sterling new silver coins, as their customers like to have bright new money for Christmas.

The Bank of England issues gold in bars of 500 ounces and silver in bars of 400 ounces, according to the amount required for the new coins. The mint, no doubt, makes its own bronze from a well-known formula.

Great Balance.

Before being issued to the mint, the gold and silver bars are weighed at the Bank of England in the "Great Balance," the only one of its kind in existence. It cost £2,000 and is the most sensitive balance in the world, as the weight of a postage stamp will make the pointer move six inches on the scale. When so much accuracy is used in the issuing of precious metals to the mint it is obvious that the same care is exercised at the mint in checking the gold and silver to the melting rooms, and subsequently in the counting of the finished coins.

Tetradrachms Versus Pennies.

The only copper coins of Great Britain between the year 1700 and the present time that are worth something more than their face value are the copper "cartwheel" penny and twopenny pieces of George III of 1797. They can be purchased in London for 2s. to 5s., according to condition. Although sometimes listed at a high rate, no collector in his sane senses would dream of giving £7 to £9 for a copper penny of 1860, neither would he give a similar sum for a bronze penny of 1914, no matter how scarce those coins might be, when a silver tetradrachm of Ptolemy I of Egypt, with one of the most beautifully executed portraits of a ruler who lived over 2,200 years ago, can be purchased in London today for 15s.

Therefore, the whole story of the mishap at the Royal Mint and subsequent deductions, can be dismissed as being unworthy of any serious thought.

On motion of Sir James Elliott and seconded by Mr. Tandy, Mr. Ford was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his most interesting and topical paper.

Mr. Hornblow referred to the positive statement made and often published that 1914 pennies were worth £7-19-6, and said that it was only necessary to divide 1914 by 12 and 20 to explode that theory which apparently had its origin in a practical joke and had since gained wide "currency."

Mr. A. Bland said that the bobbed hair in the design of the young head of Queen Victoria's coins resembled an elephant, if the features were covered, and this was said to be a symbolic recognition of India.

Numismatics In Colonial Virginia

Paper read at a meeting of
the Bronx Coin Club September
23 by CHARLES LITTLE.

When I came to study numismatics in Colonial Virginia I soon discovered that I had drawn a blank. There is practically nothing that can be called native numismatics—that is, of native origin. The colonists for the most part were poor men; they raised tobacco and wanted in exchange commodities, not money. Coins went to Europe mostly for items imported. Tobacco was their meat, drink and clothing. Whenever they exported they received money—any kind of money—English shillings, Spanish silver, Arabian gold, but mostly Spanish pieces-of-eight, as they called them.

When King James granted the charter, April 10th, 1606, it contained the right to coin money, but this right was not used until 1645, when the Legislature passed laws to provide for a copper coinage. This apparently was not carried out or we would have examples or records of them. We have no such records.

The money of account was pounds, shillings and pence. When the colonist arrived he had with him a small amount of English silver, so many pounds and shillings, and that was the way he reckoned his account. The English silver soon disappeared, but the tobacco, corn, wheat, pigs, capons and so on were valued at so many pounds and shillings; and tobacco, of which there was an ever-increasing abundance, was used as the medium of exchange.

The English kings were having troubles with Parliament. Charles I was too occupied with Cromwell to bother about providing the colonies with an adequate currency.

Even the Governor-General found it hard to get any supplies of money from abroad and so taxed the people for his support. Governor Berkeley taxed the people two shillings per head and published a list of what each commodity would be rated for. And this for a time established a basis for exchange. Corn, 10s. a barrel; wheat, 4s. a bushel; chickens, capons, 1s. 6d. each; turkeys, 5s. each. Tobacco was rated at 3s. a pound.

But tobacco was an unreliable form of currency. It was continually shifting in value, had more value out of Virginia than in it, and so tended to leave the colony; thus the new crop coming up each year would change rapidly in value, depending on a good or bad crop. The Legislature was always passing laws, as incoming vessels were buying Virginia's tobacco with Spanish dollars mostly, and the Legislature in 1645 established Spanish dollars as legal tender at 6 shillings standard.

Even so, money was scarce, and the records say that gentlemen could not pay the tradesmen, and many suits for debt were contracted. A debtor found guilty would go to jail for 30 days at the expense of the colony and then would be released free of debt unless the creditor would pay for his board every week in advance, in which case the debtor could never get out until the debt was squared. So is behooved a man to have friends so that the debt be cleared.

In 1679 Governor Culpeper and the Legislature had a dispute over the right to alter the value of the Spanish Dollar. The Governor claimed his royal prerogative and issued a proclamation changing the value of a Spanish dollar from 5 shillings to 6 shillings value, but not until he had obtained as many Spanish dollars as he could lay his hands on at 5 shillings per dollar. So he was a numismatist in one form of its meaning. However, it was quite a blow to him when the Legislature paid his back salary at the new rate of 6 shillings per dollar—in Spanish dollars. No one will ever know how he ultimately came out on the deal.

There is in collections today a coin known as the Virginia halfpenny, dated 1773, also in less common variety the cent and shilling dated 1773, and some 1774. I do not think that this coin ever circulated in Colonial Virginia. There is no record of it being authorized by the Legislature, no record of it being minted or used. Various writers say that the Virginia colonists had no respect for copper coins. Thomas Jefferson wrote in 1782—about nine years after the date on the halfpennies—that coppers were never used in Virginia. It seems probable that they were minted in England and shipped to Virginia, but were never put in use—perhaps due to the unpopularity of George III. This is merely a theory, and it would be an interesting story to know the true facts concerning them. There is a curious statement in a book by Chambers, "Colonial Currencies," which quotes from an old book that "150 young and uncorrupt girls were imported into Virginia in 1620 and 1621 as wives for the colonists, and were rated at 150 pounds of tobacco, or £22 10 shillings each." The Rev. Mr. Weems, a Colonial Virginian writer of note, says: "It did a man's heart good to see gallant young Virginians hastening to the wharves each carrying a hogshead of tobacco on his shoulder and returning with a beautiful and virtuous young wife."

So I may conclude. What need did young Virginia have of metallic currency when tobacco would supply all his wants and even provide him with a wife?

Eighteenth Century Tokens Of England

Paper read by William L. Clark at the Bronx Coin Club, September 23.

All English coins might be divided into two general classes—Regal coinage and tokens. The tokens are further subdivided by centuries. The Seventeenth Century Tokens were mostly made during the years 1650 to 1672, that is, from the beginning of the Commonwealth and through the reign of Charles II until in 1672, when a regal copper coinage was adopted. The Eighteenth Century Tokens were issued during the years 1784 and 1797, and those of the Nineteenth Century between 1811 and 1821.

The tokens under consideration tonight are those of the eighteenth century. These are often called Conder pence, because in the year 1798 a book was published by James Conder listing these tokens.

The story behind the use of tokens was the same in every case—a shortage of small change and often a mass of counterfeits. In the reign of George III, 1760 to 1820, the only regal copper coins issued were as follows: The twopence of 1797, the pennies of 1797, 1806 and 1807, the halfpennies of 1770 to 1775, 1799, 1806 and 1807 and the farthings of 1771 to 1775, 1799, 1806 and 1807. Thus previous to 1797 the only regal copper coins were the halfpennies and farthings, and these were constantly counterfeited to such an extent that only one in ten were genuine products of the mint. It is said that these forgeries were only worth one-quarter of what they represented, presumably bullion value, and the tradesmen refused to accept them. This caused such a state of affairs that the issuing of private tokens was again tolerated in 1784. The first one of this series was the Anglesea penny.

These tokens appeared from various private mints, of which the most important was the Soho Mint, at Birmingham, operated by James Watt and Mathew Boulton. Mr. Watt, famous for his invention of the steam engine, applied steam pressure to the manufacture of coins in 1788, and between that time and 1808 no less than 3,531 tons of copper were coined at the Soho Mint. This invention revolutionized the coin industry and started an era of more beautiful copper coins. It is said of Mr. Boulton that the economy and excellence of his coinage rendered counterfeiting almost impossible, and that the executions for the crime of false coining, which until 1788 had been of quite frequent occurrence in London and Birmingham, ceased altogether. Commenting on this Dr. Darwin said: "If a civic crown was given in Rome for preserving the life of one citizen, Mr. Boulton should be covered with garlands of oak!" In 1797 Mr. Boulton received a contract from the Government to coin 500 tons of copper. His first regal coins were the well-known cartwheel twopence and penny pieces, the dies for which were executed by a German artist named Kughler. Mr. Boulton's mint was so successful that he was employed to construct machinery for the royal mint on Tower Hill and later similar plants for the royal mints at St. Petersburg and Copenhagen.

The tokens themselves cover every imaginable subject under the sun. They were mostly made by local authorities and large trading firms, and were issued in every county in England as well as all over Ireland, Scotland and Wales. They were also issued for the colonies at Barbadoes, Bermuda, East India and Sierra Leone. They were even sold to foreign countries, such as Russia and the United States. There were so many varieties that tradesmen kept divided boxes in which they sorted the tokens as received, so that when a sufficient number were collected from any one issuer they could be returned and redeemed in silver.

There are several methods of arranging these tokens. One subdivision in six classes was suggested in the preface to Mr. Conder's book, namely: 1—Buildings. 2—Commercial and Public Works. 3—Industrious Genius. 4—Illustrious Men. 5—History and Politics. 6—Curious Animals and Landscapes. Mr. Atkins arranges the tokens by locality. There have been lists made of tokens by the industry they represent, such as printers, taverns, etc.

The group of main interest tonight are those which were used in the United States. I have been unable to trace them all, but I can name a few. These are the Kentucky Cent; the Talbot, Allum & Lee Cent of New York; the North American Token; the Franklin Press Cent; the Washington President Cents of 1791 and 1793; the Washington Grate Cent of 1795; the Washington Liberty and Security Cents of 1795, and there are undoubtedly several others.

It is interesting to note that these tokens were bought from the issuers in England to supply a similar shortage in coins of small denominations. It seems that these small coins of least value can play a very important role in the lives of nations regardless of any status of wealth, for a shortage causes public unrest and a general instability.

Varieties Of Massachusetts Silver

Having completed 50 years' careful study of what I consider the most interesting and important issues having to do with the coinage of our colonies and our country, it occurred to me a brief resumé might be of interest to the large number of collectors of colonials and to collectors in general. What I shall say refers to the Massachusetts silver series only.

The monumental work of Sylvester Crosby, published in 1875, not only stimulated great interest in this coinage but for the first time made possible proper attribution of the different varieties, so that instead of having a certain number of specimens a collector could aim at acquiring a set. Mr. Crosby mentions and describes 82 accredited varieties, classified as follows: Good Samaritan, 1; New England, 4; Willow Tree, 8; Oak Tree, 31, and Pine Tree, 39. Of these Mr. Crosby later discredited the N. E. threepence and sixpence, leaving 80 varieties. He did not include the Pine Tree shillings bearing the date 1650. My own opinion, based, as stated in a previous article, on the die work similarity to Cr. 10-P and the unique shilling in the Ten Eyck collection, is that these are patterns and authentic issues of the period. Since Crosby's list was published in 1875, there have been found, all undoubtedly genuine, the Willow Tree threepence, one Oak Tree shilling and one Oak Tree threepence, two Pine Tree shillings, one Pine Tree sixpence and one threepence. Of all these, excepting one Pine Tree shilling, at least two examples are known.

I am firmly of the opinion that the following Pine Tree shillings are non-existent and incorrectly attributed by Mr. Crosby, who admitted that those he described were so badly worn as to make a proper description impossible. None have appeared since the attribution was made: 6-K, 8-E, 9-G, 11-H, 17-L and 18-Q; 25-T also is doubtful; 18-Q may be correctly described.

If my deductions are correct, the changes mentioned leave 84 known varieties. Some time ago I purchased the grand collection of Massachusetts silver formed by Charles E. Clapp, of Bedford Hills, well-known connoisseur of Colonials coins, which was the most complete and in the finest condition of any collection formed up to that time. The nearest approach was the set of the late DeWitt S. Smith, of my town, comprising 55 varieties. Mr. Clapp had 63 and one die-break addition. To these I have been able to add 21 pieces, so that my collection now comprises 80 varieties with 5 die-break additions, making 85 in all. I shall continue to strive to obtain the 4 missing varieties.

In my studies I have analyzed the following collections, beginning with Finotte, 1862; McCoy, Mickley, Clay, Bushnell, Crosby (1883), Davis, Cleane, Earle, Parsons, Bement, Jackman, Jenks, Ten Eyck, Morgenthau, Sale (1933), W. S. Lincoln, (London, 1845-1936), Weightman, (London), DeWitt S. Smith, Ellsworth, Granberg, Gutttag, Newcomer, Ryder, Brand, Dr. Hall, and to some extent Colonel Green; also my two former large collections, 1918 and 1927, and that of President T. James Clarke, one of the finest and most complete ever formed. The largest number ever assembled was by the late Virgil M. Brand of some 175 pieces. All these I had the privilege of examining. Many of his gems are now in my collection. What a story of hardship, of struggle, of hope and aspiration, withal a story of joy, happiness and realization these 85 pieces of Massachusetts silver tell me! Great heritage indeed.

My thanks are due to the following collectors and numismatists who gave valuable assistance and information that aided me in compiling the "Descriptive List of Obsolete Paper Money":

George C. Arnold, Providence, R. I.; H. A. Brand, Cincinnati, Ohio; *Henry Chapman, Philadelphia, Pa.; *W. A. Clark, South Carolina; H. E. Deats, Flemington, N. J.; Frank G. Duffield, editor The Numismatist, Baltimore, Md.; *Robert Earl, Herkimer, N. Y.; John W. Haarar, Lansing, Mich.; Waldo C. Moore, Lewisburg, Ohio; John E. Morse, Hadley, Mass.; *Edward B. Sterling, Trenton, N. J.; Farran Zerbe, curator, Chase National Bank Collection of Moneys of the World, New York City.

*Now deceased.

Many descriptions were obtained from Gwynne & Day, Bankers' "Descriptive Registry of Genuine Bank Notes," and Hodge's "American Bank Note Safe Guard." Considerable historical information was secured from various rare books and old manuscripts too numerous to enumerate.

Other collectors, by showing a genuine interest in the list, have contributed to make the work a pleasure.

Editorial Comment—Numismatic News

PART I OF MR. WISMER'S LIST COMPLETED.

In this issue of The Numismatist is published the closing installment of Part I of D. C. Wismer's "Descriptive List of Obsolete Paper Money," which was begun in our issue of June, 1922. The list has occupied between 1000 and 1200 pages and about 700 of the notes have been illustrated. It contains descriptions of 18,721 different notes. It would be folly to claim that the list is complete. No matter how careful or painstaking a compiler may be, a few issues will escape his observation the omission of which will not detract greatly from the value of his list. No effort has previously been made to compile such a list, and in no other compact form can the great amount of detail information about the series of State bank notes be found. Mr. Wismer has rendered a distinct service to the growing number of collectors of this class of currency and deserves their thanks for his long and faithful service.

We feel sure our readers will all the more appreciate the monumental work of Mr. Wismer when we say that its compilation was begun after he had ceased to be a young man—that is, in years. Within a few months he will pass the fourscore mark of an active, busy and useful life. For forty-six years he has been buying and selling paper money and his accumulated years do not prevent him attending auction sales in New York and other cities. He and Mrs. Wismer recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with their four children.

In an announcement from Mr. Wismer in the advertising pages of this issue he states that he will be glad to receive from every reader comments on the list, either favorable or unfavorable.

PLEASED WITH THE MAGAZINE.

From a new Bronx, N. Y., subscriber: "Just received the September number of The Numismatist, for which please accept my thanks. It is certainly a great monthly. I read every line of it, and am so delighted with it that I am sending check for $2 for a year's subscription. Those who recommended it knew what they were talking about when they referred to your monthly as the best for coins."

ROYAL NUMISMATIC SOCIETY CENTENARY MEDAL.

We illustrate here (two-third actual size) the medal struck to commemorate the centenary of the Royal Numismatic Society, London, which was observed in connection with the World Numismatic Congress in that city the latter part of June of this year. The medal is struck in silver and bronze. It is issued by the Royal Numismatic Society, 22 Russell Square, London, W. C. 1, and the price in silver is £1, and in bronze 12s. 6d.

New York Numismatic Gossip

By Our New York
Correspondent

The acceptance by Mr. Wormser of his election to the Board of Governors cheered New Yorkers greatly. We understand that he received a large number of requests to reconsider his previous decision not to serve. We are glad to learn that he has recovered from his recent illness. Vernon Brown, of the Chase National Bank, is also on the road to recovery after an operation for appendicitis.

Farran Zerbe has now settled down to routine business after his three months' trip through the Panama Canal, California and Minneapolis. He has just prepared an exhibition of coins and paper money illustrating all types of United States currency in circulation during the hundred years since Madison Avenue was first laid out. Incidentally, we New Yorkers missed the opportunity of having Congress authorize a half dollar for the centennial of Madison Avenue. More people use this street as their address than live in many towns and cities that had coins struck for them.

The other New Yorkers that attended the convention have also settled down to business. Mr. Blake returned immediately after the convention, while Mr. Stack spent a little time in Nebraska, Iowa and Idaho. He is now busily engaged in completing the arrangements for their two-day auction sale to be held at the end of October at the Hotel Pennsylvania, their own store being too small to accommodate the participants in the sale. Mr. and Mrs. Kortjohn, who motored to Minneapolis, reported that they had driven in the wrong direction on leaving. The Pacific Ocean proved too great a barrier and they were forced to leave the West and travel east. On the trip they passed through Yellowstone Park, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and El Paso. They arrived home just in time to attend the meeting of the Bronx Coin Club.

Bronxites are looking forward to their third birthday anniversary, to be fittingly celebrated on October 28th with a ladies' night. At the Brooklyn meeting held on October 7th Mr. Klaif announced that the Brooklyn club had been organized just four years before to the day.

The second New York Metropolitan Coin Convention will be held at Radio City from November 14th to 21st this year. New Yorkers are eagerly looking forward to participating again this year. It is hoped that there will be even more out-of-town visitors this year than last.

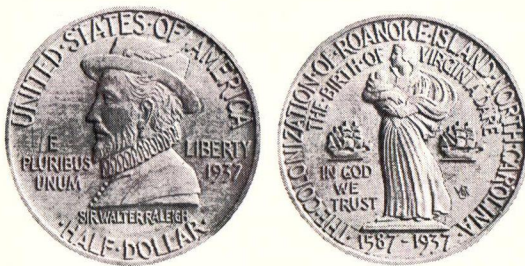

Among our recent visitors was Walter P. Nichols, who has just completed his work in connection with the distribution of the York County half dollars. He reports that this was quite a task, but that he is proud of the way he handled everything.

On the subject of commemoratives, we recently heard a dealer refer to them as "junk." We also heard a non-club man, who takes pride in calling himself a speculator, boasting that he has over a hundred sets of Cincinnati coins and more than eleven hundred Lynchburg pieces. How can such speculations be prevented? We now are asking what kind of distribution the Columbia halves will have.

Commemorative Coins

The Coin for Sir Walter Raleigh's Colony.

Although the half dollar to commemorate the 350th anniversary of the establishment of Sir Walter Raleigh's Colony on Roanoke Island and the birth of Virginia Dare, first white child of English parentage on the American Continent, is expected to be issued some time in November, the anniversary will not occur until next year. The issue is 25,000 coins, all from one mint, and the price of a single coin will be $1.65.

On one side of the coin will appear a mother and her child, garbed in costumes similar to those that bedecked the first Roanoke Island English settlers. On the same side will be images of two old English sailing vessels similar to those in which the first colonists crossed the ocean. On the other side will be a bust of Sir Walter Raleigh. The designs have been prepared by William Marks Simpson, of Baltimore, a teacher of sculpture in Baltimore and Washington.

On the spot in the stockade-enclosed and recreated Fort Raleigh will transpire on August 18, 1937, the 350th anniversary of the birth of Virginia Dare, a celebration so wide in its scope as to center attention of the English-speaking world on Roanoke Island in historically glamorous Dare County. Educational, historical and religious, the celebration planned by the Roanoke Island Historical Association will last from the early part of the summer through August, reaching its climax in a pageant-drama designed to present the history of those first colonial attempts and bring out the halo of mystery and romance surrounding the disappearance of the Lost Colony.

The association is endeavoring to reconstruct in part the Roanoke Island of 1587 and in a primitive setting re-enact adventures of the first colonists as seen through the eyes of North Carolina's and America's distinguished playwright, Paul Green, who is now at work on the pageant-drama that will form the major part of the celebration. Fred Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers and father of the Little Theatre in America, is to direct its production. That the setting may be more in keeping with the pageant, two ships, replicas of those in which the first colonists ventured across the Atlantic to a then unknown shore, will ride at anchor in waters of Roanoke Sound opposite the landing place at Fort Raleigh, now almost completely restored to its colonial appearance. A tribe of Cherokee Indians from the North Carolina reservation, it is proposed, will be brought there to recreate the Indian villages of early days and reproduce their primitive fields of tobacco, maize, pumpkin and squash.

But the actual reconstruction work has been done on old Fort Raleigh itself. Surrounded by a palisade of logs, rude log huts with thatched roofs have been built as nearly in accord with sixteenth century drawings as possibly could be done. Even included is a solid, rough Little Chapel, similar to the shrines of early days.

The Designs of the Albany Half Dollar.

The designs for the Albany half dollar were approved by the Fine Arts Commission in September and the coins are expected to be ready for delivery shortly. Miss Gertrude K. Lathrop, of Albany, the designer of the coin, has prepared for The Numismatist the following, which gives our readers some idea of the great amount of preparation necessary in this class of work if the designs are to be historically accurate. Miss Lathrop writes as follows:

The Albany commemorative half dollar marks the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the granting of the charter to Albany, N. Y. As Albany is the second oldest chartered city in the United States, I studied its history with a great deal of interest, and spent quite a little time at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the New York Historical Society, the Museum of the City of New York, and the Smithsonian Institution studying the costumes of the settlers in the year 1686 and conferring with authorities.

On the reverse of the coin I have shown Pieter Schuyler, one of the commissaries, who was soon to become Albany's first mayor, with Robert Livingston, secretary, taking leave of Governor Thomas Dongan in New York. On July 22, 1686, Dongan signed the charter which was drawn up during the two weeks' stay of Schuyler and Livingston. Schuyler is shown holding the charter. The original document was taken from the safe in the manuscripts room of the New York State Library for measurement and study during the making of the design. I found very little material about the personal appearance of these three men. My portrayal of the two young gentlemen from Albany was based upon a portrait of each, painted fully thirty years after their historic trip; and that of Dongan, upon a brief description of the "stalwart and soldierly" Irishman who came from England to be Governor. There is no authentic portrait of him.

Beavers were very plentiful in the vicinity of Albany at that time. The community's wealth and prosperity can be traced to this fact, as trade in beaver pelts was the main industry of the settlers. The beaver was used on the early seals of the city, and is also on the present seal. Although beavers were nearly exterminated in New York State a short time ago, the Conservation Department managed, by protection and careful transplanting of communities of the animals, to increase their number. It was through my studio for a few days to pose for the model of the obverse. It is occasional contact with such interesting and friendly citizens of the wild that adds spice to one's work. The maple branch is used with the beaver because the maple is the New York State tree, and the introduction of maple keys on this side, and pine cones on the reverse is symbolic of the growth and fertility of the community.

GERTRUDE K. LATHROP.

The Columbia Sesqui-Centennial Coin.

Writing to The Numismatist under date of October 3, James H. Hammond, chairman of the celebration committee, says that distribution of the Columbia coins will be deferred until the entire number from all three mints have been received by the commission. During September about 12,000 were struck, fairly evenly divided among the three mints. It is expected the remainder will be issued during October.

Lynchburg Coins All Sold.

A telegram from John V. Horner, Lynchburg, Va., dated October 7, says: "Please state all Lynchburg Sesquicentennial coins sold and no more available."

The Designs for the Gettysburg Half Dollar.

Paul L. Roy, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania State Commission, in charge of the Gettysburg commemorative half dollar, writes to The Numismatist regarding the designs of the coin:

Frank Vittor, internationally known sculptor, of Pittsburgh, has been commissioned by the Pennsylvania State Commission to design the obverse and reverse of the Gettysburg commemorative half dollar soon to be minted. The suggested designs of the Pittsburgh sculptor were selected by the commission from fourteen suggestions submitted to the commission. Before announcing its selection the commission conferred with the Pennsylvania Art Commission and received the approval of the sculpturing committee of the latter group of Mr. Vittor's suggestions.

One side of the commemorative half dollar will be emblematic of the observance in 1938 of the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, and the other side, showing the rugged, heroic head and shoulders of a Union soldier, will be emblematic of the reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans to be held in Gettysburg during the anniversary observance in 1938.

Paul L. Roy, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania State Commission, with headquarters in Gettysburg, Pa., announced that more than half of the commemorative coins have been ordered thus far and that he expects the entire issue to be sold out before the first of the year.

Elgin Half Dollars Distributed in October.

A letter dated October 12 from L. W. Hoffecker, distributor of the Elgin (III.) half dollar, reads as follows:

"We received our coins Sunday and will have the orders all mailed out Tuesday night, as we had the envelopes all ready, with the stamps on."

This sounds like real service.

The Delaware Swedish Tercentenary half dollar is expected to be issued in the late fall of 1936.

Bridgeport's Half Dollar

We illustrate here a photograph of the sculptor's models for the Bridgeport (Conn.) half dollar. These were struck during September. We have received the following information relative to the coin from W. B. Aurandt, managing director of Bridgeport Centennial, Inc.:

"In addition to the world-wide fame of P. T. Barnum as a showman, we look upon him with a great deal of respect as a fine citizen and philanthropist of our city. He served as our Mayor in the year 1875. In 1851 he purchased a tract of land in East Bridgeport, laid out streets and lined them with trees. He also reserved a grove of eight acres, which is now known as Washington Park. This was the beginning of an industrial development in our city which has since grown to great proportions. We owe a great debt of gratitude to Mr. Barnum who was among the first to take action toward acquiring thirty acres of land which he gave to the city. This land comprised our original Seaside Park, which has since been enlarged to 210 acres and has one of the finest locations in New England, with a seawall $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles long.

"We believe it most fitting and desirable to pay tribute to Mr. Barnum by having issued a commemorative half dollar bearing a likeness of his profile. The issue is 25,000, and we will not entertain an additional coinage. We are now filing applications for approximately 18,000 coins and the demand is continuing to be evident both from local and out-of-town reservations. The coin is delivered insured, postpaid, packed in a beautiful, blue, gold-imprinted container at a cost of $2.00 each, the proceeds being allocated to help defray our Centennial celebration expenses."

THE DESIGNS ON THE CINCINNATI HALF DOLLAR.

A correspondent writes as follows:

"I was more than a little interested in your comments on the mediocre design of the Cincinnati half dollar in the October issue of The Numismatist. It is difficult for many of us to appreciate what is spoken of as the modern trend in art, no matter how seriously we try to understand it. Most of our newer coins are so lightly struck that a reading glass is needed to decipher all the figures and lettering on the pieces. As a young man, not an "old-timer," I can honestly state that this is a lamentable condition, and most certainly this transitory period will ultimately be spoken of as the period of decline in art in this country unless some of the present monstrosities are improved upon in our subsequent coinage."

MEDAL OF THE BELGIAN SOCIETY, 1936.

Below is illustrated the last medal for the year of the Societe Royale Les Amis de la Medaille d'Art in Belgium, Exercise XXXI, 1936. The obverse shows the head of Queen Astrid facing left, beautifully modeled by G. de Vreese, with a crowned initial A on the right, and on the reverse the inscription "Astrid Belgarv, Regina MCMV-MCMXXXV." Below a row of ivy leaves is the Latin inscription, "Brevis Vita at Memoria Bene Deditae Vitae Sempiterna" (A short life, yet the lasting memory of a life beautifully consecrated). Below the inscription is a monogram, MA.

The Designs On Our Coins

In these columns a few months ago the writer ventured, as art critic pro tem, to berate the commemorative half dollars of the United States, complaining of repetitiousness in their symbolism. The same designs, he pointed out, kept appearing on coin after coin—ships, eagles, Indians, "conjoined" heads, goddesses of liberty, etc. Surely this series could have been made more interesting had the sculptors striven for greater variety in their representations, and drawn more fully on the rich available store of American historical imagery—our memorable personages, episodes, costumes, sites and monuments.

The criticism still seems justifiable, yet a number of readers may have asked "Why pick on the commemoratives?" Isn't this series, with all its admitted defects and tendencies toward monotony, far more fascinating than any other branch of American coinage?

We admit this without cavil. Compared to our regular coinage, the commemoratives are a bold, beautiful and original series indeed.

Our regular coins, from 1793 to about 1909, were probably the dulllest in the world. From half cents to double eagles, in copper, nickel, silver and gold, they kept repeating the same dreary designs. Liberty heads, either pompous, strait-laced and bloated, or wild and stringy, with cap blown off and snaky tresses undulating in the breeze. On a few occasions Liberty was seated, but she was the same old Liberty. And the eagles! Invariably they were attenuated to the point of gauziness—and all they could do to disguise their underfed condition was hide their bellies behind a shield. Sometimes the eagles were flying—but they were the same old eagles.

Aside from Liberty and the Eagle, what did our coins present in the way of symbols for a century or more? Absolutely nothing but such tiresome bric-a-brac as scrolls, wreaths, chains, shields and stars.

This intolerable sameness lasted for more than a century. No doubt it had its practical advantages in keeping our currency uniform and recognizable, but that is no consolation to the collector today, and it doesn't make the old pieces look one iota more beautiful.

We had to wait until the twentieth century for such startling innovations as Lincoln's head on a cent, a buffalo on the nickel and Washington on a twenty-five cent piece. If it took this long to produce the aforementioned pieces (together with our admirable current dime, half dollar and Peace dollar, and the St. Gaudens $10 and $20 gold pieces) what right have we to quarrel with the commemoratives?

None at all. The truth is that these birthday pieces furnish the brightest chapter in the history of American coin production, and we would be ungrateful if we failed to cheer their influence joyfully.

THE CINCINNATI MUSIC FESTIVAL HALF DOLLAR.

We illustrate here the half dollar issued a short time ago to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of Cincinnati as a music center. The set of coins, from three different mints, is a rare one.

THE BUFFALO NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION TOKEN FOR 1936.

Following its custom, the Buffalo Numismatic Association has issued its 1936 token. It has on one side the date of organization, and on the other side the names of its three principal officers.

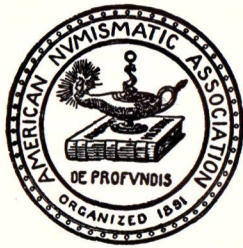

CRITICIZES THE EAGLE ON THE BRIDGEPORT COIN.

The eagle(?) on the new Bridgeport half dollar is the biggest joke as a specimen of our noble bird that ever appeared on a coin. Not a feather appears on its tin-roof surface, and several beholders said it resembled an airplane. Turn it around and you have a fine shark with two dorsal fins, an open mouth and a tongue.

The shark appears to be laughing. I wonder at whom? And how apropos that P. T. Barnum's portrait adorns the other side. He was right in his famous remark years ago.

Reports of A. N. A. District Secretaries

At The Minneapolis

Following are the annual reports of a number of the District Secretaries of the A. N. A. presented to the Minneapolis Convention, and which, on account of lack of space, were not published in the October issue:

Ernest R. Wernstrom, for California—In keeping with other parts of the country there has been a decided increase in interest in numismatics and in our Association. In my report for last year I reported an increase in membership in this territory of 23 members, and this year the increase is 64 members. This is a most encouraging condition and if traceable to the commemorative half dollars, it is my hope that we can keep the new members interested in other branches of the science as well. During the past year I have circularized all members of the A. N. A. in California, calling their attention to the need for expansion. Application blanks were enclosed with these letters. Numerous letters have also been mailed to prospects. The expense of stationery and postage has been borne by me.

Personally I have talked before a number of clubs and churches. These talks have been accompanied by exhibits and have caused a great deal of interest and have no doubt been instrumental in spreading the gospel of numismatics. Members of the Pacific Coast Numismatic Society and the California Coin Club have also cooperated in this way and with telling effect. Both of the local societies seem to be lively and presided over by capable officers. Their memberships are also increasing and where at all possible their members are induced to become members of the A. N. A. I have also been much interested in my work with the Junior Coin Collectors of San Francisco, for whom I am acting in the capacity of counselor. This is a thriving organization of high school boys from 12 to 18 years of age. They meet once a month, except during the summer months, have talks and exhibits and are now nearing the end of their second successful year. The junior field is one that all members of the A. N. A. should endeavor to foster and assist.

During the month of November of this year I have been requested by the local societies, to call the Third Far Western Numismatic Conference to order in San Francisco. This will be done in my capacity of District Secretary and should be of benefit not only to the local societies but also to the A. N. A. The Conference will coincide with the opening to vehicular travel of the new and marvelous San Francisco Bay Bridge. Exhibits and attendance has been promised by the California Coin Club, as well as the Pacific Coast Numismatic Society and it is hoped that all A. N. A. members in this part of the country will find it convenient to attend.

Ernest Cerny, for Colorado—Sorry to announce that business prevents me attending this convention. It is with a good deal of satisfaction that I can report more progress in numismatics in Denver and the State of Colorado than I was able to do in several years previous. The Rocky Mountain Numismatic Society was organized here in Denver by Member Davis. Indications are that in due time this club will be equal to many of the clubs in other parts of our country. One member of this club, Mr. Wilson, is also a member of the A. N. A. This club held an exhibition of coins and stamps a short time ago for a week and, judging from the attendance, many people are interested in coins and some could be induced to join the A. N. A. if they are approached and the science of coin collecting and pleasure derived from it is explained to them. I secured three new members for the A. N. A. during this year, J. G. Anderson, Lowell Harmon and Oscar F. Kraft, all from Denver. I am confident that in the coming fall I'll be able to report two or three more members for the A. N. A.

J. J. Gonzales, Atlanta, Ga.—Circumstances again prevent attending the convention, hence this written annual report. I am gratified to have shown some results the past year, and hope the next may prove very much better. If appointed again I shall cheerfully continue to strive and to cooperate to the end that our Association may attain its full measure of success. Heartiest wishes for a harmonious and enjoyable Convention; felicitations, especially to the "old guard."

In conclusion, to the A. N. A., one and all, come to Atlanta, where the handclasp's stronger, and where we smile longer. Please don't hesitate to seek our welcoming gate in nineteen thirty-eight.

I. T. Kopicki, for Illinois—It is with great pride and joy to report to this convention that the State of Illinois has had a very successful year numismatically. We have enrolled 52 new members, this being an increase of over 300 per cent. since my report to the Pittsburgh convention. Numismatics in Illinois continues to grow rapidly and we have a good number of prospects for membership in the A. N. A. Efforts on the part of the Chicago Coin Club to create and interest new collectors has met with great success, and through their efforts the A. N. A. has received many new members. There seems to be quite a bit of controversy among Illinois members on the question of new issues of commemorative coins. It is their opinion that this convention should go on record as trying to remedy this situation.

Herbert E. Rowold, for Kansas—While the typical prairie State has not increased its membership as so many others States have, it has shown a nice gain over a year ago, and the prospects are for an even greater increase for 1937. The Heart of America Club, too, has shown a marked increase, and there has been no let down in enthusiasm since the organization of our local club two years ago; in fact, it is going stronger than ever. Several splendid displays were made in Kansas City, and both the A. N. A. and the local club received nice publicity through the local papers. Plans for the fall and winter are as yet incomplete, but, having profited from past experiences, we look forward to our most successful year. My plans were to attend the convention this year, but these plans fell through about a month and a half ago, but I feel that our club will be ably represented by my good friend and fellow-member, Frank C. Ross.

Nelson T. Thorson, for Nebraska—I beg to report from Nebraska, and in particular for the Byron Reed Coin Collection in Omaha, wonderful numismatic advancement in this district. We have now seven successful coin clubs in and surrounding this district, all having above average attendance, with many A. N. A. members. The encouraging thing is that all these clubs are of senior members with a desire to not only have their clubs a corporate member of the A. N. A., but also the individual desire to belong to our Association. With three A. N. A. life memberships in Omaha, and the Omaha Coin Club with nearly 50 members, numismatic success is now assured in this district.

Visitors stopping over in Omaha are urged to pay a visit to the famous Byron Reed collection of coins, books, and autographs, valued at about $200,000, where may be seen the finest of the 1804 dollars, the $5 Dubosq & Co., and the 1822 $5 gold. The collection, owned by the city of Omaha, is scientifically arranged and protected, occupying the top floor of the Omaha Public Library, and is open to visitors afternoons. Your District Secretary for many years, chairman of the library committee in charge of this collection, bids all A. N. A. members and visitors a welcome to Omaha, the Reed collection and a visit to our Omaha Coin Club.

Joseph Barnet, for Lower New York—I am pleased to report a healthy increase in applications for the past year. I did not keep a record of them, but always have application blanks with me when I attend meetings of the local clubs. I am a member of three of them and seldom fail to get the applications of members of the club who are not members of the A. N. A. There have been issued this year to date sixteen commemorative half dollars (including the branch Mints), and about sixteen more will be issued within the next two or three months. In fact, I expect to see quite a few this month. I attribute the increase in membership mostly to these issues and predict a steady increase for some time to come. These new collectors, I believe, will eventually drift to the regular series. The local clubs are planning another show here in October or November, and I believe this will bring us some new members. I regret very much that I will be unable to attend the convention, as I certainly would like to be with you.

Robert H. Lloyd, for Upper New York—According to my calculations, we have a total of 30 new members for New York State above the New York area. Of this number, one is a society in charge of a museum. There are pending ten applications, of which one is a corporate member. Of this number many were introduced through the various local clubs, some seven directly by your District Secretary, and some six or seven others through information furnished by the General Secretary. Inasmuch as there is no definite mark of delimitation for the area of the two State secretaries, it is not possible to make these figures exact, as those members residing within one hundred miles of New York City were not included in this report. Two prominent members have been taken by death.

The continued expression of numismatic interest in the form of local and area gatherings has continued on a very good plane. Your District Secretary has had the pleasure of attending either in part or full time the Greater New York numismatic gathering in October, the Central New York Numismatic Conference at Cortland, in November, and the Tri-State Convention at Jamestown in June. At these meetings good displays and real fellowship warrants their commendation and continuation.

One corporate member was added in the Buffalo Society of Natural Sciences. The application pending is that of the Albany Numismatic Society. I am informed that the Albany Numismatic Society, newly formed, has a membership of some thirty-five members, almost a record, I believe, for a starting club.

While this report may not show as many newcomers as some other States, it must be remembered that this State has been well organized numismatically for years. Our President, Mr. Clarke, has done much to foster interest in this area. We expect the year 1936-1937 to be as good or better from the standpoint of growth of our clubs and members.

Harley L. Freeman, for Ohio—Ohio has again held her own numismatically. While the number of new members from Ohio who have joined the Association during the last twelve months has not been as large as some of our sister States, an analysis of their collecting specialties shows that the majority are not "commemorative investors," but are more serious collectors, interested in the science as a hobby, and not necessarily for profit, and who will probably be members of the A. N. A. ten years from now.

The five local clubs in Ohio are still holding regular meetings, and all report increasing interest and attendance. The Ohio State Numismatic Association, which by the way is the only State numismatic society in existence, held its annual meeting and exhibit in the spring, which was very well attended.

Fortunately, or unfortunately, depending on one's point of view, Ohio is responsible for two (up to the present) additions to the numismatic world during 1936—the Great Lakes-Cleveland Centennial and the Cincinnati Musical Center commemorative half dollars. If these coins are responsible for creating just a few new collectors, then their issue has been worth while.

In behalf of the local coin clubs at Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo and Youngstown, I extend greetings to collectors throughout the country and invite any one interested in our hobby to attend the meetings of the local groups whenever in the vicinity.

M. C. Tonderum, for South Dakota—Since last year's convention two South Dakotans have joined the A. N. A. Last January I had a small article published in the Viborg Enterprise, Viborg, S. D. I have also received from members several addresses of prospects and have sent letters of invitation to them all, but so far without results. Different reasons compel me to resign as District Secretary for South Dakota after this year's convention. Albert N. Hanten, White Lake, S. D., one of our members, has expressed his willingness to take the office. I recommend him.

William D. Hogan, for Tennessee—Numismatically, the Volunteer State has had a steady growth for the past three years, and in no year has that growth been more rapid than in the year which has just passed. Association membership has been on the increase, due largely to the splendid work of the (comparatively) old members in contacting and interesting collectors in their localities. Their cooperation has been wonderful. One new club, at Memphis, has been organized; Chattanooga and vicinity is a live prospect for the next year. Indications are that the number of collectors in the State is increasing.

Charles S. Hall, for Western Pennsylvania—It gives me a great deal of pleasure to write you my annual letter in connection with numismatic activities in Western Pennsylvania during the past year. I am most sorry that I shall not be able to attend the coming convention in Minneapolis, for I should like to greet those in attendance and renew my acquaintance with the ladies and gentlemen whom I had the pleasure of meeting in Pittsburgh last year. Since it will be impossible for me to be present, I would like, by this letter, to extend my personal greetings to those who will be fortunate enough to be in attendance at the convention in Minneapolis.

We still appreciate in this section the honor of having had the American Numismatic Association convene in Pittsburgh in 1935. That event has provided us with pleasant memories of the occasion, brought to our doors people whom we were proud to know and pleased to remember, and proved a great stimulus to collectors in this area who were imbued with enthusiasms brought to us from the outside world. This stimulus has not only proven beneficial to those who were already collectors, but it has extended to others and made collectors of them. Of course, we made a very extensive drive to obtain members for the American Numismatic Association during the months immediately prior to the convention, and, while we have enrolled from this district quite a few new members during the past twelve months, I am somewhat disappointed that the number has not been larger. I can say this, however, that the new members are real collectors, that they are brimful of enthusiasm, and that this year's addition to the A. N. A. fold are real quality, even if not so great as last year in mere numbers. We anticipate a great year from every standpoint during the coming twelve months, for the new members are good workers and the old timers in this section seem fired with the enthusiasm of youth.

L. A. Burmeister, for Wisconsin—There has been quite a bit of activity in our State and city in regard to coin collecting. Our club here, which was organized about a year and a half ago with only five collectors, has grown to 32 members and is still growing. All our meetings are well attended and always some interesting coins and medals are shown. Practically all our members are members of the American Numismatic Association, except a few which have joined lately. I have secured six new members for the American Numismatic Association so far this year and have a few more prospects. I am working hard trying to get all collectors in good standing in our city and State to become member of the American Numismatic Association.

PROPOSED ORGANIZATION OF EMERGENCY-MONEY COLLECTORS.

What is said to be the first meeting of collectors of notgeld (emergency money) in this country took place at 325 East Fifty-seventh street, New York City, the apartment of Walter S. Child, on October 14. In order to facilitate the exchange of duplicates, notes and views, as well as with the assembling of a library in mind, it was decided to apply for a charter for the Emergency Money Club, whose officers will be Walter S. Child, Fred M. Howard and Milo Barry.

ONE OF THE MINNEAPOLIS CONVENTION EXHIBITS.

In the report of the exhibits at the Minneapolis convention published in our issue last month we inadvertently omitted mention of one which, because of its nature, could not be placed in the exhibit cases. The exhibit was by Horace M. Grant, of Providence, R. I., and consisted of a Louis XVI table with a glass top. It originally was purchased by General Grant, and later became the property of a Newport antique dealer in 1886. It was then sold to a prominent Providence attorney, and then to Mr. Grant. The top of the table was used by General Grant to hold the Grant medals, funeral badges, etc., until they became too numerous.

At the convention banquet Mr. Grant also distributed medals showing the Battle of Rhode Island, one of the Tercentenary medals, on one side, and the Tercentenary medal of Bristol, R. I., on the other side.

Deaths

JESSE EUGENE HISCHE.

Jesse Eugene Hische, of Columbus, Ohio, died suddenly on October 2, aged 66 years. He was found dead in bed when his chauffeur called for him in the morning to drive him to his office. He was vice-president of the Columbus Pharmacal Company, with which he had been associated for over thirty years. He was a member of the A. N. A., the Columbus Numismatic Society and the Ohio State Numismatic Society. He attended the Minneapolis Convention of the A. N. A. and apparently was in the best of health.

He was an ardent collector of United States and national bank notes, and also had a representative collection of United States coins. He was a past grand master of the Masonic Order, and was buried in his uniform. The full Commandery service was held at the funeral.

TWO PROMINENT A. N. A. MEMBERS DIE SUDDENLY.

As the forms close for this issue of The Numismatist we learn of the sudden death of two prominent members of the A. N. A.

Arthur C. Wyman, president of the Pacific Coast Numismatic Society, died in the Palo Alto Hospital on October 6 of a heart affection.

William F. Dunham, of Chicago, one of the oldest members of the A. N. A., died a few days ago. He was among those who attended the A. N. A. Convention in Minneapolis.

We hope to give further details of these deaths in our next issue.

A SLIGHT DISAPPOINTMENT.

The A. N. A. Convention in Minneapolis was to the members and visitors a great success, in so far as the entertainment and fraternal features were concerned. I regret being obliged to leave before the concluding session.

However, I had hoped, as well as other members, that we would find in the October issue of The Numismatist the usual complete, detailed proceedings. On reading the convention proceedings, of vital interest to all members, I find a great deal of the discussion eliminated, as well as the votes for the different candidates in the election. The few present should have realized that to vote to eliminate any part of the convention proceedings is not customary nor accepted in good faith by the membership.

I would say that over 5000 members and our corporate membership, in addition to the large influence of the District Secretaries, desire a complete report of our conventions. The fact that only some seventy-five persons registered, and that only half of those attended business sessions, does not lessen the members' interest in their Association proceedings that we have enjoyed in past years.

PULLING POWER OF THE NUMISMATIST.

In the August number of The Numismatist I placed a small advertisement to exchange coins. The net result obtained was more than I anticipated, as I completed my set of commemorative half dollars. I received more than one hundred replies from this small space, the cost being negligible. I trust the editor will print this, and if any collector doubts the pulling power of The Numismatist, just kick-in with a small ad. and find out for yourself.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY COIN CLUB—September 15th, twenty-ninth regular meeting. Vice-President Dewey presided. Thirty-one members and five guests were present.

Frank Tarter advised that he had received Mr. Hyde's picture, and would have it at the next meeting. Mr. Deas reported that he had heard nothing about the New York Convention to be held in the fall.

The applications of William E. Frey and Ernest Weidhaas were read and held over for vote at the next meeting.

The secretary read the statement of the President of the A. N. A., T. James Clarke, that the applications for membership to that Association for the year ended August 20, 1936, were more than the entire increase in membership from 1910 to 1935, inclusive, an indication of the remarkable increase recently in the interest in numismatics. Mr. Clarke estimated that there are 50,000 coin collectors not members of the A. N. A. Several members of the club signified their intention of applying for membership in the A. N. A.

A copy of "Our Metallic Money" was donated to the club.

The topics for the next meeting will be: Items pertaining to fires (the week beginning October 5 being Fire Prevention Week); the story of the coin that gave you most trouble to obtain (and you probably appreciate it the more on that account); five-cent silver pieces; coins of the Bahamas, Barbadoes, Bermuda; recent acquisitions; $100 and larger Confederate Notes; U. S. encased postage stamps; coins of Spain before 1850.

Mr. Fastiggi reported that the celebration of the 275th anniversary of the purchase of land now occupied by the cities of Mamaroneck and Larchmont will run from September 20 to 26, with appropriate pageants, and an exhibit furnished mostly by Mr. Gutttag will be set up in the Mamaroneck Public Library on September 22, the exhibit being composed of local items.

Mr. Gutttag distributed the York County half dollar. Mr. Lighte reported that the Scarsdale Board of Trade will have an exhibit on December 3, 4 and 5.

The club went on record as being in favor of the issuance of proof silver dollars in 1936 to complete the series, and instructed the secretary to write the Superintendent of the Mint at Philadelphia to that effect.

Mr. McGill advised in relation to the Constitution Half Dollar that he had two plans to get the coin issued; first, by the resubmission of the bill to Congress in January, and secondly by having the Director of the Mint authorize such a coin as a substitute for the coinage of the regular half dollar for 1937.

The topics of the meeting were: Hendrick Hudson items (commemorating his discovery of the Hudson river, September 11, 1607); five-cent nickel pieces; coins of Mongolia and Argentine; Southern notes before the Civil War; coins in very fine condition; any item that is not generally collected by other members. Also the bank notes of the Kirtland Society, on the subject of which Mr. Dewey read a very interesting paper, briefly outlining the life of Joseph Smith, by whom all these Kirtland notes were signed by hand.

The following exhibits were on view:

Mr. Gutttag: Large Hudson medal by the A. N. S.; book on the anniversary of banks with illustrations of actual bank notes; coins of Mongolia, 1 tuhrik, silver; 50 mung, silver; 20, 15, 10 mung, silver; 5, 2, and 1 mung, copper; Argentine, 1834, eight reals, unc.; 1836, 8 escudos, obverse bust of General Rosas, reverse blank, copper; 1842, 8 escudos, bust of General Rosas, reverse blank, silver; 1852, 8 reals, Cordoba, unc.; 1879, 80 centavos, pattern, brass; 1879, un patagon, pattern, silver; brass coin made in Germany, facsimile Argentine and U. S.

Mr. Lighte: Hudson-Fulton medal struck in silver; Hendrick Hudson daalder struck in silver and one in aluminum; half dollar of 1823 and quarter of 1831 in very fine condition; one widow's mite; one Panama silver, 1.25 M, known as Panama pill; proof 5c. piece of 1881 and 5c. piece of 1883 without cents; Robert Fulton medal in bronze; one two cash (gold), Alaska.

Mr. Rippner: Exhibit of $1 notes.

Mr. Deas: 24 coins, consisting of Lafayette dollar, Isabella quarter, and Columbian half dollars in proof; Nuremberg thaler; several German commemorative pieces; 2, 3 and 5 mark pieces of various designs, and several 2-mark Austrian pieces.

CHAUTAUQUA COIN, STAMP AND CURIO CLUB—149th meeting, August 12th, held in Smith Memorial Library, on the Chautauqua Assembly grounds, at Chautauqua, N. Y. After many requests by Chautauqua visitors, this year a day was set aside on the Chautauqua program for a coin and stamp rally, to be sponsored by the local club. T. James Clarke, of Jamestown, had charge of the coin display, which occupied the entire first floor of the library. Mr. Clarke showed 33 cases of ancient, foreign and U. S. coins in copper, silver and gold. The ancient were Greek, Roman and Egyptian. The foreign consisted of dollar-size silver, and many early English silver and gold. Among them was a beautiful proof set of Queen Victoria's Jubilee in 1887. The United States included his early colonial coins—the outstanding feature of which are the Willow, Oak and Pine Tree issues of Massachusetts, one of the two finest collections in existence. He also displayed his silver collection of United States 3 cents to $1, nearly complete, and a complete set of all the Commemoratives. 6 trays of United States, Central and South American gold coins of the larger size. His collection of United States scrip, fractional currency, National and Federal Reserve Bank notes included every issue of bank notes by the banks of Chautauqua county. Many of them are No. 1. His collection of Washington and Lincoln medals was especially attractive.

William E. Trantum displayed 17 cases, containing many pieces of Swedish copper plate money; 265 crown-size silver coins of various nations, also Indian wampum and Chinese copper and silver coins, ancient and modern.

Henry A. Beckman's display consisted of broken-bank bills. A full set of United States small cents in proof and uncirculated condition was shown by C. Ed. Nelson, and John O. Bowman exhibited his collection of freak and commemorative coins.

This was the first time in the 65 years of the Chautauqua Assembly that a coin and stamp display had been held on their grounds, and it met with the hearty approval of all officials and the many thousand guests of the institution who viewed them, making it necessary to continue the display for another day, and by special request it will hereafter become an annual event at Chautauqua.

The 150th meeting, August 26th, was held in the Hotel Jamestown. In the absence of President Bowman from the city, John C. Engstrom presided. A paper on the early Continental Currency was read by John F. Jones, beginning with a brief history of the United States at that period, and the events which compelled the issue of this paper currency to finance the Revolutionary War, with an account of its later repudiation by the Government. It was illustrated with a display of that scrip.

The 151st meeting, Sept. 9th, at Hotel Jamestown, began with a banquet at 6:30 P. M. tendered T. James Clarke by the club, in honor of his recent reelection as President of the American Numismatic Association. John O. Bowman, president of the club, presided. Covers were laid for 40 guests.

Mayor Samuel A. Carlson, No. 1 honorary life member of the club, was the principal speaker, and congratulated Mr. Clarke on behalf of the City of Jamestown on his reelection, stating the city is proud to have such a citizen.

Several other speakers voiced similar congratulatory remarks to which Mr. Clarke responded by thanking the club members for the banquet and then gave a detailed account of the Minneapolis convention, referring especially to the warm reception and entertainment by the Northwest Coin Club.

After the banquet and speeches, the regular business meeting of the Club was held, at which Mr. Clarke displayed many photographs and news items of the American Numismatic Association Convention.

A paper on "Chautauqua County and Perry's Victory on Lake Erie, Sept. 10, 1813," was presented by Arthur S. Tennant, of Westfield, honoring that anniversary. It was a most interesting and instructive historical paper regarding that naval battle, which by its victory established the northern limits of the United States against further British aggression, and the writer in conclusion suggested that the club sponsor a commemorative half dollar in 1938 on the 125th anniversary.

MILWAUKEE NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—24th meeting, September 25, called to order by the chairman, Mr. Burmeister, Jr. Sixteen members were present.

N. J. Marx, of Saukville, Wis., and P. M. Joers, of Milwaukee, were elected members, bringing our roll call up to 34 members.

It was decided to have our second annual banquet in the latter part of November. Messrs. Keaber, Collura, Hemmer, McClosky, and Henke were appointed to serve on the committee for this banquet. It was also voted on to have this committee serve permanently throughout the year.

Exhibits were as follows:

Mr. Polzer: Two 1936 Democratic medals, Roosevelt and Garner, with donkey on reverse, in two sizes.

SEATTLE COIN CLUB—September 24th. President Fouts called the meeting to order. Nine members and six visitors present.

A paper prepared by Mr. Hull on the metallurgy of metals used in the U. S. coinage was read by Mr. McFarlane, owing to Mr. Hull's illness.

Mr. Saeman read a paper on some of the things to be considered on starting a coin collection.

President Fouts then introduced the speaker of the evening, E. M. Baranoff, who gave a very interesting talk on the rulers of Russia and their money issues dating from the Mongolian invasion to the present time. Coins representing the different periods were passed around for inspection, among them one of the very rare uncirculated platinum pieces.

Many other coins were shown, including a beautiful specimen of a large oak tree shilling, by Mr. Dermoud, and a fine group of proof and uncirculated specimens of rare large Chinese silver by Mr. Fouts. Mr. Saeman exhibited a set of the new Cincinnati commemorative half dollars.

After the meeting a spirited coin auction was held.

BUFFALO NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION—Sept. 28, 217th meeting was called to order by President Stoaks with fourteen members and one visitor present.

An invitation was received from the Rochester Numismatic Association urging all members to attend the Central New York Meeting, to be held at Hotel Rochester, October 10. A large number of Buffalo members except to attend.

Exhibits were as follows:

Mr. Lloyd: Coins of Jamaica, nickel pence, Victoria to George V, unc. and proof; Jubilee crown, 1935, George V, unc.; double florin of Victoria, proof, with Arabic and Roman "I" in date, 1887.

ATLANTA COIN CLUB—September 16th. Meeting called to order by President Ketchem. Eight members and one visitor were present.

The first matter to come up for discussion was the annual exhibition. The club has held an exhibition each year since its founding, and has made many friends and obtained many new members in this way. Final decision on many ideas suggested was carried over to the next meeting.

Mr. Warner, as usual, brought to the club meeting a very interesting exhibit and discussion. This time it was a very rare and unusual item, the gold certificate of certain California National Banks, of which Mr. Warner has not one but three specimens, a $5 note of the Farmer's National Bank of San Jose, a $5 and $10 of the First National Gold Bank of San Francisco; all three are in excellent condition. Mr. Warner explained how these banks came to secure permission to issue notes backed by a gold reserve. His talk and the opportunity of seeing the notes were both much enjoyed.

The door prize, donated by Mr. Gonzales, was drawn by Mr. Ketchem, and was presented by him to our visitor of the evening, J. S. Burton.

BOSTON NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—Meeting of September 28. The society held its usual dinner and regular monthly business meeting at the Boston City Club, with ten members and one guest present, President Davis presiding.

A motion was offered and passed without discussion instructing the secretary not to give out the names of the members of this society for purposes of circularization or commercial solicitation, thus reaffirming its policy of many years' standing in protecting the membership against those requesting lists for commercial purposes.

The President announced the deaths of the following members: Frank O. Brown, of Worcester, Mass., who died at Holden, Mass., September 23, 1936, and Charles Markus, of Davenport, Iowa, who died at Minneapolis, Minn., August 25, 1936.

Mr. Gifford told of his experiences in acquiring a Victory Medal of the World War issued by the Government of Siam, of which but few were issued and are obtainable only with the greatest difficulty.

Mr. Nichols spoke on "How a Commemorative Half Dollar Is Issued," relating in a highly instructive and interesting manner his experiences in connection with the issuing of the York County (Maine) Tercentenary commemorative half dollar, in which, as treasurer of the association having the matter in charge, he had a conspicuous part from its inception. He told of the origin of the idea, the problem of financing, placing it before Congress and its approval by that body and the President; of the artist's fine work, the preparation of casts, and the routing required on the part of the Treasury Department; of the final acceptance by the Fine Arts Commission and the quick action needed and taken to have the minting done in Philadelphia in order to have the coins ready for distribution within the short time allowed, and of the final and highly successful conclusion of the whole matter. He referred appreciatively of the fine spirit of cooperation everywhere shown, from Maine participants, to the officials in Washington and Philadelphia. He emphasized the point that the piece is distinctively a Maine product throughout, up to the point where the Federal authorities entered into the picture. At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Nichols was bombarded with questions, and was tendered a vote of thanks for his splendid exposition of the many intricacies involved in producing a commemorative half dollar.

Exhibits were as follows:

Mr. Nichols: Drawings, casts, documents and sundry papers covering his talk, and a sample of the York County commemorative half dollar.

Dr. Steinberg: A set of three Bridgeport commemorative half dollars in a case, and eight United States pattern pieces in silver and bronze, in denominations of twenty cents, ten cents and one cent, for the years 1869, 1874 and 1855, respectively.

Mr. Gifford: Insignia of the Society of Colonial Governors, a diamond-studded cross of the Legion of Honor, 1870.

DETROIT COIN CLUB—298th meeting, September 17th, President Steh-fend presiding. Twenty-seven members and three visitors were present.

Mr. Allen reported that our 300th meeting and banquet would be held in the Seville Hotel on October 15th. He also reported that a steak dinner would be served for $1.50 per plate and that the secretary should notify all members to send in their reservations.

Mr. Noyes reported that the dies for our 300th meeting medal were ready for approval and that the medals would be available at that meeting.

A motion was carried to present one of our 300th meeting medals to the Boston Numismatic Society in return for their courtesy in presenting us with one of theirs, and that one should be presented to the A. N. A. and one to the A. N. S.

Mr. Reidenbach complained that our meetings did not interest him much any more, due to the fact that there was too much commemorative half dollar talk and not enough on other coins. He suggested that we have a few papers on other coins for a change. Quite a lengthy discussion followed, in which it was pointed out that quite a bit of time was consumed in discussing commemoratives, and rightly so at the present time, but some time should be taken for other phases of the hobby, and in this connection Mr. Needels offered to have a paper for the first meeting in November. Mr. Dodd offered to give us some details on the 1913 A. N. A. convention, which was held in Detroit, and of which he believed not many of the members even knew about, as the Detroit club did not exist at that time.

The Librarian advised that in 1911 the Canadian Government put out a set of coins in a case with a space left for the silver dollar, which was not issued at that time. He asked if any of the members knew why the dollar was not issued, and no one present was able to volunteer the information. (If any one reading the above can furnish us with this information, it will be appreciated).

An auction sale was held.

Exhibits: Mr. Kaller: One dollar prosperity certificate from the Province of Alberta, Canada. Mr. Dodd: Set of silver coins from the leper colony of the Philippine Islands.

CHASE BANK COIN SOCIETY—The first fall meeting of The Chase Bank Coin Society was held September 17th. No special topic was on the schedule, but the next meeting will be a discussion of United States cents.

A large number of visitors were present and signified their desire to join the society. Enthusiasm for coin collecting has been riding high during the summer, when no meetings were held, although on the outside we have heard a few of the real "dyed-in-the-wool" collectors express uneasiness caused mostly by the recent commemoratives. These individuals threaten to cease collecting entirely.

A few displays were made during the meeting, the most interesting items being some bills with errors of one sort or another. These were shown by Alfred Nilson. Two of the other show pieces were a half dollar and an old large cent, each having a head on both sides.

Since the September meeting our treasurer, Vernon L. Brown, has become a client of a hospital for an appendicitis operation.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—September 1, President Marlier was in the chair. Fourteen members and one visitor were present.

This meeting was held at the Hotel Henry, at the invitation of Mr. Reynolds, who provided excellent refreshments.

The next regular meeting will be held at Carnegie Institute.

Mr. Gies exhibited two very rare varieties of the O mint half dollar of 1842. They are not listed by Haseltine.

OMAHA COIN CLUB—29th regular meeting, October 2nd, Mr. Hartman presiding.

Five applications for membership were received and referred to our membership committee for action at our next meeting. None of our members were eligible, however, for the prize which had been announced for any member bringing in two new members at this meeting, so President Hartman extended this privilege to also apply at our next meeting.

The secretary was instructed to experiment on a definite method of exchange and barter among our members and at our meetings in an effort to increase the value of our auction sales and to encourage 100 per cent. attendance at our meetings.

A beautiful gold collection consisting of eighteen doubloons of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries was displayed by Mr. Thorson, receiving much admiration.

COLUMBUS NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—58th meeting, September 14. Meeting called to order by President McCrory with 10 members present.

Ernest Brady was admitted as a member of the club.

A communication was read from Mr. Melish, of Cincinnati, inviting all members and their wives to a banquet and get-together meeting with the Cincinnati Club on October 17th.

The secretary was instructed to write to the Treasurer of the United States for information on uncirculated coins at the mint. On request of President Clarke of the A. N. A. that a District Secretary for the C. N. S. be appointed for the balance of the year, the secretary was appointed.

Frank C. Ross reported on the Minneapolis A. N. A. convention and urged the club to make a bid for the 1940 convention for Kansas City.

An essay, "Wheels of Progress: A Coin Collector's Musings," by M. H. Morgenroth, was read.

C. Leroy Carlson will prepare a paper on Swedish plate money for the meeting night of October 10th.

The date for the fall banquet was set for October 19th.

Mr. Porter, the A. N. A. District Secretary for the State of Arkansas, gave a talk on the early days of his coin collecting activities.

A spirited auction followed and about $50 in coins changed ownership.

In the display were 1 daler and ¼ daler Swedish plate money, by C. Leroy Carlson; these are Mr. Carlson's latest acquisitions.

Mr. Paris had on exhibition a complete set of the Cincinnati halves.

Mr. Keith contributed the York County, Maine, half dollar.

PHILADELPHIA COIN CLUB—October 8. The meeting was held at the Tally-Ho Restaurant and was preceded by a dinner at 6.15 P. M. Some 27 members were on hand for the dinner and a few others came for the meeting at 8.30.

President Faucett presided at the dinner and called upon each member present to say a few words concerning his particular branch of numismatics or about the hobby of collecting coins. Everyone who was able to attend the dinner felt it was a great success and were enthusiastic about holding such a gathering each year.

The election of officers for the ensuing year formed the most important part of the business meeting. Mr. Faucett was reelected president; Dr. Thomas M. Logan, vice-president; George J. Patterson, secretary; John Dowling, treasurer; James Iannarella, curator.

Dr. Logan requested to be relieved of the duties of secretary, as it was difficult for him to get to the meetings at 8 o'clock.

It was decided to increase the dues to $2.00 a year and to obtain a more suitable room for holding the meetings.

Each member had been requested to bring a coin wrapped up as a "surprise package," which would be sold at auction to the highest bidder. Mr. Reid carried on the auction and succeeded in getting about $7.50 for the treasury. Some good coins were obtained for a very low bid, while others of less value brought correspondingly higher prices. However, it was enjoyed by all and increased the funds of the treasury.

The curator then proceeded to sell a number of fine lots brought in by various members.

MADISON (Wis.) COIN CLUB—September 28. Ten members were present.

Columbian World's Fair and other commemorative issues of postage stamps were discussed by the members.

The method of cleaning and preserving silver and copper coins was discussed, and it was decided to have Mr. Claude L. Hawley give a demonstration at the next meeting. All members will be asked to give their experiences in cleaning them.

It was decided to have another coin auction at next meeting. The exhibits were as follows:

Claude L. Hawley: Nearly complete set of commemorative half dollars; large and small set of cents in a coin album.

Ray Rinden: U. S. Commemorative half dollars in a pocket coin album.

ALBANY NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—Twelfth meeting, October 8th, called to order by President L. L. Clough, with twelve members present.

Copies of C. F. French's paper on "Conditions in Coins" and printed programs for the 1936-1937 season were distributed.

As the feature of the evening R. S. Polk presented a very instructive paper on "Early American Banking and Currency."

Mr. Polk: A fine assortment of early bank notes, mostly those issued by banks doing business in this vicinity.

Mr. Reynolds: Continental Currency, including some of a rare $40 denomination, in excellent condition.

WASHINGTON NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—September 12, President Edward L. Weikert, Jr., presiding. Eleven members and fourteen visitors were present.

The meeting was held at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Weikert, at Gettysburg, Pa. The party left Washington in five automobiles and arrived at "Weikertsheim," on Marsh Creek, which is about five miles south of Gettysburg. Upon arrival the party was welcomed by the host and hostess, and, with Mr. Weikert, left immediately for a tour of the Gettysburg battlefield under the guidance of Mr. Clyde L. Bream, son of F. Mark Bream, a World War veteran and now a member of the National Park Service. Under Mr. Bream's guidance the party was escorted over this celebrated battlefield. Mr. Bream explained in detail the various movements of the troops on each side. He also gave figures of the number engaged on each side and their losses. We also visited the spot in the cemetery where Abraham Lincoln made his celebrated Gettysburg address at the dedication of this cemetery, and on which a beautiful monument has been erected. At the conclusion of this tour the party returned to "Weikertsheim," where the hostess had prepared a bountiful supper for all present.

After supper the meeting was called to order by the president. A letter was received from Paul L. Roy, who is in charge of the issuance of the Gettysburg commemorative coins, advising that he would be unable to be present as he would be in Jackson, Miss. President Weikert, in Mr. Roy's absence, spoke on the Gettysburg coin. The design will have two figures, representing the Blue and the Gray on the obverse, and flags showing the Stars and Stripes and the Stars and Bars on the reverse.

Mr. Boosel made a report on the Minneapolis A. N. A. Convention and advised that the Society's invitation to hold the next convention in Washington, D. C., was favorably received and endorsed by Mr. Duffield, representing the Baltimore Coin Club. Remarks were made by President Weikert on various matters pertaining to the society.

Mrs. Wilkins sent her regrets at not being able to be present.

A committee to arrange programs for the meetings of the society was appointed, consisting of Mr. Boosel, chairman, and Mr. Chapman and Dr. Huberman.

The high point of the meeting was a paper prepared and read by F. Mark Bream on the Confederate half dollar, and which he has, without doubt, one of the four originals. This paper told of the research which Mr. Bream had made to substantiate his claim, and it will be sent to The Numismatist for publication in the near future.

Two 1913 V nickels were displayed, one by Mr. Weikert and one by Mr. Luchenbaugh. They were closely examined by those present, but no conclusion was made as to their being genuine.

Cards were enjoyed by some of the ladies, while the male members of the party enjoyed a general conversation on numismatics.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Weikert for their hospitality and the bountiful supper, also to Mr. Bream, Sr., for procuring his son as our guide over the battlefields.

Mr. Wyman, president of the Pacific Coast Numismatic Society and member of the C. C. C., gave us an outline on the Third Conference and Exhibit to be held in San Francisco in November, and urged everyone to attend and exhibit one or more frames if possible. He also made some fine remarks on the progress of the C. C. C.

The secretary was requested to mail notices and acquaint all members with the coming event, so as to have a real representation from Southern California.

Rev. E. W. Thwing volunteered to give us a paper and exhibit on coinages of Japan, Korea and Annam, at the November meeting.

Secretary Kirkpatrick was appointed by the chair to act as District Secretary of the A. N. A., notice to be sent to President T. James Clarke of the appointment.

Donations of coins for the club cabinet were made by Ed M. Lee and Mr. Altot.

Exhibits were as follows:

Mr. Van Rossem: Tray of American Colonials.

Mr. Jorgensen: Several frames of coins of the Bible.

Mrs. Leo C. Samuels, who has spent some time in research work, part of which was in Washington, D. C., read a very fine paper on "The Louisiana Purchase." A fine paper and well read.

Auction followed adjournment. Dr. Harbeck, acting as auctioneer, disposed of some 60 lots of material. The prices realized indicate that the hobby is on the up and up.

HARTFORD NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—The twenty-fifth meeting was held on September 16th with fifteen members and one guest present. Mr. Scott opened the meeting with a welcome to all present after the summer vacation during the months of July and August. He spoke generally on the summer doings in the numismatic field and of a display of medals which he intends to exhibit in a local store window.

The secretary read an invitation of Mr. Miller to meet at his summer camp for an outing for our next meeting, and it was accepted with pleasure by those present. Mr. Webber also invited the club to meet at his house, for which we are thankful.

Mr. Bates announced that a case has been made to house the club's collection at the rooms of the Historical Society.

"KIPPER COINS" AND "KIPPER PERIOD."

In reply to inquiries as to the meaning of the terms "kipper coins" and "kipper period" frequently mentioned in Mr. Eklund's papers on German copper coins appearing in these pages, we quote from Frey's "Dictionary of Numismatic Names":

"Kippermunzen—A name given to clipped coins which circulated extensively in many parts of Germany at the beginning of the seventeenth century, and the same term was applied to the debased currency issued from 1621 to 1623."

THE NUMIS-MARKET DIGEST.

We have received a copy of the Numis-Market Digest, published by E. P. Morgan, of Atlanta, Ga., a member of the A. N. A. and the Atlanta Coin Club. This is the first of a series of similar issues to be published from time to time as the coin market seems to justify. The purpose of the Digest is to acquaint collectors with the latest prices realized at public auction sales, and the book seems to do that. While auction prices are not always a reliable guide to coin values, they furnish a basis for the would-be buyer in placing his bids, and we know of no other way to determine the value of a coin than to place it under competitive bidding. In the Digest the sale records are given of all the U. S. coins in all metals, except the great rarities, of which there are probably no recent sale records, and, on the whole, it is a very convenient and reliable list of values. With all its good features, we cannot refrain from remarking that if the printing had been along standard lines its typographical appearance would have been improved.

R. N. A. HOBBY SHOW EXHIBIT A BIG SUCCESS.

The Rochester Numismatic Association participated in the finest hobby show Rochester has ever seen. The exhibit consisted of four large slanting table-top glass cases and one large wall frame. Among the coins on exhibit were types of U. S. coinage from the finest gold pieces down to the last small cents, which included Civil War tokens, Hard Times tokens, Bryan money, Colonial coins and currency, early Pioneer gold, Confederate bills, broken-bank bills, U. S. notes, scrip in wood, paper and what have you, and last but not least, the commemorative coins.

Our good friends, Mr. Bauer and Mr. Gillette, made a fine display of ancient coins and odd and curious coins of the world, which drew plenty of comments and questions.

Messrs. Powers, Plumb and Harzinski took charge of arranging the exhibit, and they wish to thank others members of the club who shared their time at the booth, answering the many questions and extending a hearty invitation to join us at some of our meetings.

LYNCHBURG, VIRGINIA.

One of my pleasant and interesting trips this year was to this delightful city, rich in historic lore. I found that the citizens still retain that Southern hospitality for which the South has long been noted. Secretary McWane, of the Sesqui-Centennial Association, is one of those agreeable chaps whom we all like to meet. I was, however, unable to obtain from him any of the rare Carter Glass half dollars. My real reason in making this trip was to find a hundred or more of these rare coins for my many customers.

The coins were released on Monday, Sept. 21st, and I succeeded in purchasing from the citizens of Lynchburg nearly two hundred of them, paying from $2.00 up. I predict that the Lynchburg coin will sell for five dollars within a short time.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

These coins have never been circulated, but some of the early crowns are not very well struck up or are a little rubbed from being kept loose in a bag. The first grade pieces are all magnificent coins, and the others extremely fine. The smaller denominations are mostly in brilliant state. All orders executed in strict rotation, and the earliest orders will secure the finest specimens.

Delaware Swedish Tercentenary Half Dollar

A commemorative Half Dollar has been authorized by a Special Act of the United States Congress (signed by the President, May 15, 1936), which will be issued in connection with the Tercentenary of the Landing of the Swedes on the site of Wilmington, Delaware. This first permanent white settlement in the Delaware River Valley was made in the Spring of 1638.

To Be Issued by One Mint

The Congressional Act limits the coinage of the half dollars to one mint and authorizes an issue of 25,000 coins.

Sculptor

There will be a competition during the Summer of 1936 among sculptors and other artists for the best model for the coin. A prize of $500 will be offered. The coin should be ready for distribution in the late Fall of 1936.

By Subscription Only

The coins will be sold by subscription for $1.75 per coin, postpaid. Subscriptions for lots of 20 coins or less will be given preference. Checks or money orders payable to Equitable Trust Co.

The Delaware Swedish Tercentenary Commission has appointed the Equitable Trust Company, Wilmington, Delaware, to act as its agent for receiving subscriptions and for distributing the coins upon their delivery to the Commission by the Director of the Mint. The applications for coins, if accepted, will be honored in the order of their receipt.

KNOCK, KNOCK

I receive my share of knocks. Many persons think I sell too cheap. I am not out to cut prices, and I price the coins I have in stock at what I consider a fair advance over cost. I have only the following coins in stock in quantity at present, and if there are any in this list you can use in your collection or for trade I suggest an early order, because some items are very limited. Another knock is that I am too slow in answering letters. I have doubled the size of my office force and can now give you one-day service on all orders and correspondence.

I offer the following, subject to prior sale, UNCIRCULATED, POSTPAID AND INSURED, or will ship C. O. D.
